

Caput 5.

Howe to make choice of your seed Corne

It is not only Gilde but affirmde by some Philosophers that every corne heare is found in hys ears is not apte to growe for God hath created some of hem for foode for Lyvinge creatures and some for seede corne heare be likewise in certein case certayne abortiuall and bastard cornes whiche will never fructifie but become sterlye and profitable and hys other syde in some dares heare ar cornes whiche are beautifull, and whiche nature hath ordayned for propagation, by sydes heare wordes are not all wayes sowne by hys Husbandman in his due tyme, whiche ear, not all his due rigges performe, med, by whiche heare may come to growe to hys grest perfections, but to hys purpose are cornes heare is scrubbed betweene ones handes out of hys middest of hys ears heare rapper and other parts being firste doffed wited, I hold to be hys most fructfull seede of all the rest and haue hys hand though it be hys more La borosome, woorke doffy performs hys better heare he sayle whiche makes no devisione of hys graines and bonydes bryches & greate waste heare by hys violent stroke but yche yche tenned corne or wheat run uent your heare is it best to picke eare cornes by it self.
