How much I have missed you and how often I have wished how glad I was to get them and little matters in your letters from which I can fancy you whole by and being. Though you both suffered from the oppression countless times and I think you would have been far off here where we have an unreasonably mild, though changeable and very unhealthy winter. Never had the Doctor man so to do and never were more doctors ill. He had our share of illness, principally in this long nervous fever which kept him out of school for three months and most
